

Public speaking as means of development communicative skills

Tsiguleva Olesya, Russia
Novosibirsk State University
Kolmakova Margarita, Russia
Novosibirsk State University

English gives access to acute information, good education and significant positions at work

The objectives of foreign languages teaching of a specialist should be considered in the aspect of development of communicative skills.

Our analysis of respondents received from student's and graduate's interviews testifies to the fact that the skills of speaking communication, especially public speaking are not sufficient and need the improvement.

Speaking is a crucial part of second teaching language and learning. There are different types of speaking :

- * Talking to friends
- * On the phone
- * Asking a new information
- * Discussing news and events public speaking

The main activities of development public speaking as a means of communicative skills:

- * Presentations
- * Debates and discussions
- * Video conferences

Conclusion

Presentation, debates and discussions, video conferences (webinars) are ideal way to develop and master public speaking skills.

Thank you for attention!

