

ABOUT EFRI

The first school of higher education in Rijeka was established in 1627 by the Jesuits. However, the Faculty of Economics in Rijeka (EFRI) was founded in 1961, as a constituent member of the University of Zagreb. When the University of Rijeka was established in 1973, the Faculty became its member. Today it is one of its most important and active components, with more than 1 800 students.

The Faculty of Economics in Rijeka was among the first to introduce scientifically based contents, courses and research work in Croatia, founded on the theory and practice of Economic association and Integration of countries and their respective economies. The Faculty has signed agreements on collaboration with eminent foreign universities, both in the field of research and organization of joint conferences, student exchange, summer schools and other.

The Faculty carries out scientific and development research, especially programmes of strategic interest for the Republic of Croatia. All tasks of the Faculty are completed in accordance with the requirements of sustainable development of the economy and the social community in which it operates.

It performs undergraduate, graduate and various post-graduate study programmes in the field of Economy and Business Economy. Since 2011 it offers an International Business study programme taught in English (undergraduate and graduate study).
